The transaction is a securitisation of loans backed by Viviendas de Proteccion Oficial (VPO) properties. These properties are part of social housing programmes and are sold below market price to low-income borrowers that meet certain eligibility criteria.

KEY RATING DRIVERS

Sound Asset Performance

At the time of the securitisation in 2009, the loan pool was already on average 60 months- seasoned and hence the majority of the properties were bought prior to the excessive price rises on the Spanish real estate market. We observe rapid deleveraging resulting from asset amortisation leading to increasing credit enhancements with a reserve fund at target as excess spread covers defaults. Delinquencies have been decreasing across all buckets.

Sufficient Credit Enhancement

The prices of the VPO properties are regulated by the Spanish government and VPO borrowers are eligible to obtain government sponsorship in the form of a partial (up to 20%) subsidy to the monthly instalment or an upfront payment. Currently 39% of the underlying pool benefit from a monthly government subsidy within the VPO scheme.

In our analysis of GAT ICO, we tested potential interruption of the government subsidy by assigning a higher probability of default to subsidised loans simulating that the borrower is paying also the subsidy part of the instalment in case the government defaults or the borrower is failing to re-apply to the programme (typically after five years). Other cases of subsidy expiry - such as higher borrower income - are not considered a risk for the transaction. The analysis showed that the credit enhancement was sufficient to withstand these stresses.

House Price Indexation

In the loss severity analysis we accounted for the regulated house prices of the VPO programme-financed properties through separate housing indices for these housing types displaying lower volatility in the past. The indices are used as per the Fitch criteria.

Swap Termination Risk

The transaction includes a swap with Cecabank (BBB-/Stable/F3) as counterparty, where the SPV pays all interest received based on its assets indexed to IRPH and receives 3m Euribor plus 1%. Cecabank is posting collateral with itself as collateral account bank on an account pledged to the SPV, which is neither in line with the swap documentation nor with Fitch's Structured Finance and Covered Bonds Counterparty Rating Criteria. Therefore, Fitch is accounting for this ineligibility by assigning ratings that factor in two cases, the continuation and the termination of the swap. The latter case is introducing interest rate risks, despite floating assets and liabilities of the SPV, because the interest rate reset frequencies differ significantly for the assets and liabilities of the SPV.

Political Risk in Catalonia

As pointed out by Fitch's International Public Finance Group (see Catalonia Referendum Move Likely to Increase Tensions), the agency sees it as unlikely that Catalonia, where most of the real estate backing the loans is located, will leave the Kingdom of Spain. Additionally, Fitch International Public Finance assumes that increased tensions between the central government and Catalanian government in the lead-up to any vote will not result in significant disruption to the Spanish economy.

VARIATIONS FROM CRITERIA

No variation to any of the published criteria.

RATING SENSITIVITIES

A reversal of the Spanish recovery with increasing unemployment poses a risk to the asset performance of the transaction.

A departure of Catalonia from the Kingdom of Spain may lead not only to a disruption in subsidies, but also in economic activity and house prices inside and outside Catalonia.

USE OF THIRD-PARTY DUE DILIGENCE PURSUANT TO RULE 17G-10

Form ABS Due Diligence-15E was not provided to, or reviewed by, Fitch in relation to this rating action.

DATA ADEQUACY

Fitch has checked the consistency and plausibility of the information it has received about the performance of the asset pools and the transaction. There were no findings that affected the rating analysis. Fitch has not reviewed the results of any third-party assessment of the asset portfolio information or conducted a review of origination files as part of its ongoing monitoring.

Fitch did not undertake a review of the information provided about the underlying asset pools ahead of the transaction's initial closing. The subsequent performance of the transaction over the years is consistent with the agency's expectations given the operating environment and Fitch is therefore satisfied that the asset pool information relied upon for its initial rating analysis was adequately reliable.

Overall, Fitch's assessment of the information relied upon for the agency's rating analysis according to its applicable rating methodologies indicates that it is adequately reliable.

Fitch conducts a reasonable investigation of the factual information relied upon by it in accordance with its ratings methodology, and obtains reasonable verification of that information from independent sources, to the extent such sources are available for a given security or in a given jurisdiction. The manner of Fitch's factual investigation and the scope of the third-party verification it obtains will vary depending on the nature of the rated security and its issuer, the requirements and practices in the jurisdiction in which the rated security is offered and sold and/or the issuer is located, the availability and nature of relevant public information, access to the management of the issuer and its advisers, the availability of pre-existing third-party verifications such as audit reports, agreed-upon procedures letters, appraisals, actuarial reports, engineering reports, legal opinions and other reports provided by third parties, the availability of independent and competent third-party verification sources with respect to the particular security or in the particular jurisdiction of the issuer, and a variety of other factors. Users of Fitch's ratings and reports should understand that neither an enhanced factual investigation nor any third-party verification can ensure that all of the information Fitch relies on in connection with a rating or a report will be accurate and complete. Ultimately, the issuer and its advisers are responsible for the accuracy of the information they provide to Fitch and to the market in offering documents and other reports. In issuing its ratings and its reports, Fitch must rely on the work of experts, including independent auditors with respect to financial statements and attorneys with respect to legal and tax matters. Further, ratings and forecasts of financial and other information are inherently forward-looking and embody assumptions and predictions about future events that by their nature cannot be verified as facts. As a result, despite any verification of current facts, ratings and forecasts can be affected by future events or conditions that were not anticipated at the time a rating or forecast was issued or affirmed.
